William Hotham

Excerpt from Pages and Portraits From the Past, Vol. 2 of 2: Being the Private Papers of Sir William Hotham, G. C. B., Admiral of the Red We were received by the ex-emperor with all his former dignity and the party consisting of Napoleon, Bertrand, Sir Henry Hotham, Captain Maitland, Mr. Irving and myself, were kept standing the whole time. Napoleons person I was very desirous of seeing, but on doing so, I was disappointed. His figure is bad, he is short with a large head, his hands and legs small, and his body so corpulent as to project very considerably, his coat made very plain, as you see it in most prints, and from being very short in the back it gives his figure a more ridiculous appear ance than it has naturally. His profile is good and is exactly what his busts and portraits represent him, but his full face is bad. His eyes are a light blue.
