The Painted View

Matthew Louis Burns

The Painted View by Matthew Louis Burns is a tenderly absurd tale of benign intervention. Humanity is confronting extinction, a downward spiral linked to nanotechnology and biotechnology endeavor. The European Union is resistant, effectively undermining the needs of its citizens. Politics is increasingly out of touch. Sexuality lingers suspect in a world acutely out of balance. One man battles against seemingly impossible odds to contribute and make a difference. Following six years of production, Burns delivers to his readers this witty, satirical romance. This heart-breaking narrative is an exercise in reflection exposing the beauty of life rich in trial and tribulation, adversity and opportunity. The Painted View is a curiously crafted adventure certain to entertain and inspire.
